

FORESTER

Forester is a person educated in forestry who has chosen forest tending as profession. This means that the person is expert who knows many things about trees and their growing, who can identify insects, species of plants and animals. Forester knows how to obtain timber by using environment-friendly methods, how to protect the forest against damages caused by wildlife, wind, pests and wood-decaying fungi. Forester can read in forest maps, is acquainted with economics of forest operations, and knows how to plan and properly organize forest works. Forester knows what kinds of wood are suitable for specific products and is familiar with forest machines and equipments. Forest owners hire the foresters "into service".
